

Bringing Christ to People...
Building Christ Followers

January 24, 2007

During the last six months of 2006 our church worked with Randy Triplett and his company "Creative for Kids" to brighten up our facility. We wanted our children's wing to let our members and guests know that we care about kids. Our experience more than met our hopes and expectations. Not only do we love the end result, but the process along the way was superb. Randy was very easy to communicate with both in person and at a distance, quickly accessible via email and phone, and he worked with us in a professional manner. The project moved along very efficiently. While on site he and his partner displayed a kind, Christian, outgoing demeanor and our church community truly enjoyed their presence. They were highly visible and yet neat and unobtrusive.

One unexpected bonus was Randy's ability to help our team more clearly focus on our ministry vision and goals. Once this was in place, the mural themes and signage were an outgrowth and clearly supported the core of our ministry.

It was fun working with Randy on this project. He guided the thoughts of our team and yet was open to where and how God was guiding us in the ministry unique to our church. Thus, our murals have qualities that he had not previously used in other locations.

I would highly recommend Creative for Kids as a resource for churches wanting to make a visible statement about children's ministry. Our children and their parents love our new look. But so do grandparents and others who understand the importance of creating a place that can be a spiritual haven for children.
